“As a Small Business Advisor, I am continually seeking resources to provide better service to my clients. In February, I was introduced to the NxLevel program and in June I was invited to participate in the online course provided by Lewis-Clark State College. NxLevel Online is easy to navigate, has clear expectations and there is great interaction between the students and the instructors. The quality of guest speakers and their content is excellent. I feel that NxLevel Online is a great resource especially for rural Alaska because of the limited road access.

Many of the clients in Alaska are unable to travel to a weekly course. With this program, enrollment for those in rural Alaska will be a possibility. As with any online course, this course offers individuals with a busy schedule flexibility to participate. I urge anyone interested in starting a business or currently in business, to participate in the NxLevel program offered by Lewis-Clark State College.”
